Dear Bill:

My hearty thanks together with those of the members of the Mid-Career class for a very informative and highly provocative program. The amount of response you got from the group in the way of questions and discussion was a good indicator of the degree to which you stimulated their interest, and, in addition, I am pleased to be able to report that subsequent reactions which I have heard have been uniformly enthusiastic.

I should like to confirm my verbal invitation to you for a repeat performance with the next group, if convenient on Tuesday, March 3rd. Time and place will be the same, and I can think of no change in substance which would significantly improve what you offered the current class.

Sincerely,

/s/
